This is a safe, custom-built, and stylish house in the most sought-after estate in the Cornwall Hill Country. This house has beautiful architecture lines that show how much thought went into the design and how much attention to detail was paid to every little detail. It was built by Nico van der Meulen Architects, which is one of the best firms in South Africa and has won many awards. Their main goal is to make unique, high-end houses that fit the needs and tastes of each client. Invest in a building that can earn you money right away and that will hold its value over time. In addition to the main house, the land has a separate second home that can be rented out. With its large, spotless rooms and beautiful views, this family home is located in a lush part of Cornwall Hill. There are a lot of different ways it could be used: as a place to work from home, as a second home that makes money, or for grandparents or older married children. The door is two stories high and makes a big statement with its large glass windows that go from top to bottom. Because each piece of wood and marble in this house was made by hand by Indonesian artists, it took months to finish on-site with a lot of attention to detail. The main bedroom has its own bathroom, balcony, living room with fireplace, two bedrooms (one that connects directly to the main bedroom and is perfect for a newborn), a lounge with fireplace, his and hers separate dressing rooms, and a bathroom. There is also an enclosed outdoor lounge with fireplace and surround sound just off the main bedroom. The main house has six bedrooms, five of which have their own baths. There is a separate building on the right with two bedrooms. The house has 6 bedrooms, 2 bathrooms, a study with a walk-in safe, a living room, a kitchenette, a covered patio with walls around it, and a laundry room. Each of the second home's two bedrooms has its own bathroom, and there is also a guest toilet, a double garage, a living room, a dining room, a kitchen with a separate area for washing up, and a private yard.
