The four residences are works of contemporary architecture, integrated into their surroundings through the use of natural materials and simple primal forms. As homes in one of the country's prime seaside locations, they are designed to combine simplicity and sophistication, relaxation and urbanity. With a strong flow between the inside and outside, the homes are connected to magnificent views on all sides. At the heart of each building is a green space – either a water-wise garden or courtyard – that continues nature's presence into the interior of each residence.
